Tara is a tough negotiator and skilled litigator who knows how to balance clients' business interests with legal needs to save time, effort, and business capital. She protects clients' interests in all types of bankruptcy, insolvency and litigation matters. Her clients include business debtors in need of restructuring; financial institutions, loan servicers, businesses, receivers, bankruptcy trustees and unsecured creditors' committees.

With a Master's Degree in Business Administration and certified as a Business Bankruptcy Specialist by the American Board of Certification, Tara has the business acumen necessary to effectively handle complex litigation, Chapter 11 reorganizations, receiverships, workouts, and any insolvency related matters. She is also a board member of the Turnaround Management Association.

She enjoys Chapter 11 cases and litigation because of the variety of industries, business issues, and competing interests involved. Tara correlates restructuring a business with solving a big puzzle: lots of little pieces of different shapes and sizes that need to fit together to make the business successful again.
